DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 6/02/2009, 05/14/2009 and 09/03/2008 are in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statement is being considered by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 51-66, 83-92, 143-150, 190-192, 266-278, 321-322, 345-350, 357-362, 365, 368, 370, 373, 376 and 378 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Merrill Lynch, CMA Insured Savings Account Fact Sheet in view of Zaitzeff letter dated June 22, 1983 and Schwartz letter dated June 22, 1988

Merrill Lynch discloses a Cash Management Account (CMA) which uses a computer acomputer program product for managing a plurality of client transaction accounts for a plurality of clients at a banking institution, comprising:

at least one computer usable media having computer readable program code embodied therein or among them if there is more than one computer usable medium, to be executed by a computer, the computer readable program code comprising computer code for accessing a database maintained on one or more computer readable media and accessible by one or more

computers for carrying out one or more of the following operations, wherein the database comprises information for each client transaction account, wherein client transaction account funds for the client transaction accounts are aggregated in an FDIC-insured and interest-bearing aggregated deposit account held at the banking institution, and wherein the information for each of the client transaction accounts includes information on each client's funds held in said insured and interest-bearing aggregated deposit account (see Merrill Lynch, CMA "How the ISA Works;" page 50 and "The ISA account as the Primary Money Account" discloses automatically depositing funds, page 51)

computer code for determining by the one or more computers on a regular basis at least one aggregated net transaction for a plurality of said clients comprising a sum of said client deposits/transfers to and withdrawals/transfers from said respective client transaction accounts at the banking institution (see Merrill Lynch, CMA Aggregation of Retirement PlanInterests and Account deposits, page 49);

computer code for determining by the one or more computers from said at least one aggregated net transaction whether to deposit/transfer funds to or withdraw/transfer funds from said one FDIC-insured and interest-bearing aggregated deposit account (see Merrill Lynch, CMA Aggregation of Retirement PlanInterests and Account deposits, page 49);

computer code for updating by the one or more computers the database with each client's deposits/transfers to and withdrawals/transfers from said each client's respective transaction account (see Transfers and Withdrawals, page 52).

Merrill Lynch CMA Fact sheet is silent as to disclosing a computer code for processing needed deposits/transfers to, or needed withdrawals/transfers from said FDIC-insured and interest-bearing aggregated deposit account based on said determining from said at least one aggregated net transaction step, so that more than six (6) withdrawals/transfers are made during a month from a plurality of said FDIC-insured and interest-bearing aggregated deposit accounts; and processing more than six (6) withdrawals/transfers by check, debit card, and/or credit card within a month from each of a plurality of said client transaction accounts.

The Zaitzeff letter discloses the fact that the CMA account customer will be permitted to make an unlimited number of withdrawals from the MMDA by a set of instances enumerated in the first sentence of paragraph 5, but will be considered part of six pre authorized transfers to third parties permitted per month by § 1204.122 otherwise.

In the Schwartz letter, Merrill Lynch proposes (or contemplates) to operate the CMA Program generally without transfer and withdrawal restrictions under 12 CFR 204.2(d)(2)(ii). (see Schwartz letter first paragraph)

Thus it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill the art to modify and automate Merrill Lynch's CMA as contemplated by Schwartz to provide the expected result of unlimited withdrawals and/or transfers, being an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's submission of an information disclosure statement under 37 CFR 1.97(c) with the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(p) on 5/14/2009 prompted the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 609.04(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
